

Previous International Symposia on Marek's Disease and Avian Herpesviruses

| Year | Location                    | Type of meeting    | Comments                                                       |
|------|-----------------------------|--------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1978 | West-Berlin, Germany        | Symposium          |                                                                |
| 1984 | Ithaca, New York, USA       | Symposium          |                                                                |
| 1988 | Osaka, Japan                | Symposium          |                                                                |
| 1992 | Amsterdam, The Netherlands  | Symposium          | Satellite meeting of the XIX World Poultry Association meeting |
| 1994 | Petersburg, Florida, USA    | Molecular workshop |                                                                |
| 1996 | East-Lansing, Michigan, USA | Symposium          |                                                                |
| 1998 | Smolenlee Castle, Slovakia  | Molecular workshop |                                                                |
| 2000 | Montreal, Canada            | Symposium          | Satellite meeting of the XX World Poultry Association meeting  |
| 2002 | Cyprus                      | Molecular workshop | Jointly with the Avian Immunology Research Group               |
| 2004 | Oxford, England             | Symposium          |                                                                |
| 2006 | Newark, Delaware, USA       | Molecular workshop |                                                                |
| 2008 | Townsville, Australia       | Symposium          |                                                                |
| 2010 | Athens, Georgia, USA        | Molecular workshop |                                                                |
| 2012 | Berlin Germany              | Symposium          | First one including other herpesviruses                        |
| 2014 | East-Lansing, Michigan, USA | Symposium          |                                                                |
| 2016 | Tours, France               | Symposium          |                                                                |
| 2018 | Yangzhou, P.R. China        | Symposium          |                                                                |
| 2020 | Guelph, Canada              | Symposium          | Postponed to virtual meeting in 2021                           |
| 2024 | St. Louis, Michigan, USA    | Symposium          |                                                                |